Profile of Dr. RAJA J. CHELLIAH

Dr. Raja J. Chelliah was a national icon at least in four respects: as a teacher of economics, as a fiscal policy maker, as an institutional builder and as a mentor. The most prestigious Padma Vibhushan was conferred on him by the Government of India in 2007.

Born in 1922, he obtained BA and MA degrees in Economics from the University of Madras. After a few years of teaching at Madras Christian College, he won the Fullbright-SmithMundt scholarship and did Ph.d in Economics at University of Pittsburgh, USA.

After serving at NCAER, New Delhi, University of Rajasthan, and Osmania University, he was invited to join the staff of IMF in the Fiscal Affairs Department. He was the chief of Fiscal Analysis Division during 1970-75. Dr. Chelliah came back from the IMF in 1975 with view to finally settling down in India and rebuilding India's fiscal system.

Dr. Raja J. Chelliah has been remembered as the Chief Architect of the Tax Reforms initiated by the Government of India when the country embarked on its liberalization journey in 1991. Through his work in the area of fiscal federalism as well as his research on development issues, poverty eradication, Dr. Chelliah has made invaluable contribution to the Indian Economic Reforms and has left an indelible impression on the present rapidly globalizing economy of India. Introduction of VAT in the case of indirect taxes owes much to Dr. Chelliah's efforts.

He built both National Institute of Public Finance and Policy at New Delhi and Madras School of Economics, Chennai. He served as a Honorary Consultant to Ministry of Finance (1975-77), a member of the Planning Commission and the 9th Finance Commission during 1985-90, the Chairman of the Tax Reforms Committee stating (1991) and the fiscal adviser to Ministry of Finance etc.
